

I wish to have an electric cargo bike

Lorie, 16
nervous system disorder

Lorie has a playful personality and enjoys making people laugh. Her laughter is contagious. Her passions include cycling, dancing and she loves watching watching concert videos.

Lorie was diagnosed with Down's syndrome at birth, but recently had two strokes that left her with very little mobility on her right side. A very difficult ordeal for the whole family, in the midst of a pandemic.

"Lorie has always loved bike rides. Whether it was being pulled with the cart or using her adapted bike," shares her father, Marc. "After the strokes, her right side no longer functions as it did before."

Lorie's wish of having a way to keep the joy of her bike rides alive inspired her wish of an electrically assisted cargo bike "Lorie now asks me to go for a bike ride almost every day," shares Marc. "We have already tracked 212 km and this is just the beginning! Lorie is unable to express herself, but I can guarantee that she feels a lot of joy in her cargo bike. "
