

Donna Espenberg
Cyclist 2016, 2015, 2014 and 2013

As a Business Manager in the Radiation Oncology department, Donna Espenberg doesn't often get to interact with patients and their families. That's why riding Closer to Free is such an important experience for her and why she calls it an "amazing and life-altering experience."

Several of Donna's colleagues invited her to join them on the Ride as a meaningful way to help raise money to fund research in their field and support the patients whose lives have been touched by cancer. "Riding Closer to Free was the perfect way for me to connect with our patients and their families," she says. "I feel honored to be able to ride by their sides." But her involvement is more than professional, as several of Donna's family and friends have been diagnosed with cancer. Just last summer, she lost a very close friend to lung cancer and she dedicated her 2015 ride to her memory.

"I am very much looking forward to growing our Team Hunter Accelerators," she says, "and to riding with my colleagues to raise money to help bring the world CLOSER TO FREE!"
